Objective: TRIumph’s senior design project is to design and construct a chariot-style vehicle that is able to be both pulled behind a bicycle and pushed by a runner. The design should improve on the usability of the old equipment, as well as remain safe and lightweight. This vehicle will be used by myTeam Triumph in various triathlons and road races in order to allow physically disabled persons to experience the race.