Yá'át'ééh!

This week is Pueblo Culture week! You’ve visited the ancient Pueblos -- Mesa Verde and Chaco Canyon. Their descendants live in the 19 Pueblos in and around Albuquerque (and Zuni, near us!). Nineteen separate cultures and artistic styles. The week begins at the Indian Pueblo Cultural Center, “The Gateway to the Nineteen Pueblos.”

Mon 10/28  Indian Pueblo Cultural Center | Albuquerque, NM
Van leaves at 1pm | Tour 3-5pm | Dinner 5-6pm

Dinner will be at the Pueblo Harvest Café – elegant, traditional entrees served in a beautiful dining room, surrounded by views of the Sandia mountains, and warmed by a two-story stone fireplace.

Prof. Huyser will hold class at UNM after Dinner | Return by 10:30

On Saturday we will visit one of the most fascinating Pueblos...

Sat 11/2  Acoma Pueblo Excursion  “Acoma Pueblo is situated on top of a mesa, hundreds of feet above the surrounding land. It commands a breath-taking view of the countryside, other mesas and the distant mountains - no wonder it is called Sky City. Like the hillside towns of Italy, the location was chosen for protection from marauding enemies, but the incredible beauty of this panoramic view of the world must have had something to do with the decision for the Indian people have an intense visual sensitivity, which anyone familiar with their art can easily attest.” – Indian Pueblo Cultural Center

Acomapottery.net