

Michael Wright '01 joins other alum in establishing the Bays-Herzberg Scholarship

Michael Wright '01 spent a semester abroad studying in China during his final year at Calvin. Two years ago he joined with other Asian studies alums to establish the Bays-Herzberg Scholarship to help fund a semester abroad for an Asian studies student. Michael works as a Chicago-based attorney specializing in corporate law. "I support the scholarship because, objectively speaking, I think the study of China and Chinese language is very important. And I think it benefits our entire community to support students who want to study that."

(original article published in Spring 2011 issue of Spark edited by Joyce Steigenga)