Attempted Larceny – Spoelhof College Center

On Wednesday, September 28, 2011, at approximately 11:00 a.m. a professor in the Art Department returned to their office to discover an unknown male going through their desk drawers. When confronted, the unknown male told the professor he was just snooping and then apologized before leaving the office. The subject then fled from the College Center to the West Parking Lot, where he disappeared.

Suspect:

The suspect is described as a college age white male with black hair. The suspect had on white pants and a blue dress jacket. He also had on a white baseball cap and had white ear buds in his ears. The suspect was carrying a green back pack.

ADVICE:

Be sure to lock the doors to offices and encourage co-workers and student employees to do the same. Be sure to keep all valuables out of sight and when possible lock them up in some type of locking drawer. Also make sure to use a cable lock if you have a lap top computer.
