

Multicultural Student Development Office Events

- Seven Days in the Black World: a week-long celebration of the contributions of African-Americans to the formation of our country. The week included guest lectures, films, daily trivia contests, and open forums. College students spent a morning reading African/African-American children's stories at two local elementary schools.
- Cesar Chavez Week: This was the first event organized to honor the work of Cesar Chavez; it is to become an annual event. The Multicultural Student Advisory Board joined with the Social Justice Committee to organize a Sweat Shop Simulation which educated students about working conditions and pay in many underdeveloped countries. Dr. Mark Rodriguez, History and Law professor at Notre Dame, delivered a timely lecture on the history of Migrant Farm Works in the Midwest.
