Foreword

Calvin College is deeply committed to research and scholarship as an integral part of its Christian mission. This commitment is grounded in the idea that Christians are called to be agents for renewal in this fallen world. Scholarly research and activities extend to all aspects of the created order, whether advancing basic scientific knowledge, studying pedagogy, or developing new artistic and musical expressions. As engaged teacher-scholars, Calvin College faculty model lives of learning, renewal, and service for Calvin students, colleagues, the Christian church, and the community at large. For students in particular, faculty scholarship enhances the classroom environment and often provides opportunities for students to work alongside faculty on research projects. Through all these activities our hope is that we encourage and display the coming kingdom of God, giving our students and those we encounter the vision and skills to be agents of renewal in the next generation.

Here is the record for the period of July 1, 2003 through June 30, 2004. We submit this record with a humble desire to be accountable for the privileges we have been given to pursue such work at Calvin College. We hope we have been faithful to our calling.
