Dear Symposium Participants,

How much we have to be grateful for as we gather together: the gospel of Jesus Christ that draws us together, thoughtful presenters who will encourage and lead us, those who care for the facilities in which we meet, those who prepare our food, those praying for us from close by and far away, and each one of you. Thanks so much for joining in this occasion for learning and growing together. We pray that gratitude sets the tone for everything we do together here, that this event not only “meets the needs of the saints,” but also “overflows with thanksgiving to God” (2 Corinthians 9).

As we gather, it is important to realize how diverse we are. This is not a conference just for “worship people” (a term we increasingly hear which marks worship off as merely one specialized interest in the church). There are events that gather people in particular roles—the worship types, the justice types, the evangelism types, the faith formation types. While there is value in focused learning, this can also divide us.

Our prayer is that it is hard to tell whether this is a conference on preaching, worship, justice, faith formation, evangelism, the arts, disability/ability, anti-racism, music, theology, history, cross-cultural learning, or ‘glocal’ Christianity. To summarize it in a phrase, the vision here is for “symphonic discipleship” or “whole-body-of-Christ-sanctification.”

We hope that sessions on mental health, racial trauma, contemplative prayer, the psalms, singing and praying bilingually, universal design, and more, continue to stretch us all. We hope you find songs you love to sing and a song that you may not yet like to sing, that you will be graced by encouraging conversations in the hallway, and confronted again with the power and beauty of God’s Word, conveyed through preaching, drama, visual art, and more.

Then, may we return home eager to continue our learning and growing in ways that strengthen our ministries and bring praise and glory to God.

In Christ’s service,

Scott Hoezee, director, Center for Excellence in Preaching
Kristen Verhulst, program manager, Calvin Symposium on Worship
John D. Witvliet, director, Calvin Institute of Christian Worship

CONVICTIONS ABOUT WORSHIP

TEN CORE PRINCIPLES

On the tenth anniversary of the Calvin Institute of Christian Worship in 2007, we identified ten core principles and practices to present as our central convictions about vital Christian worship. We pray that these ten convictions have already been at the heart of our work so far, and we pledge that they will be even more formative for our institute in the work that lies ahead of us. And we hope our many ecumenical partners and contacts find them clear, compelling, and most of all enriching for their own worship and ministry.

TIMELESS TRUTHS

These ten core convictions are not innovations. They are timeless truths from Scripture and the rich history of Christian worship. Today, each conviction remains theologically crucial, pastorally significant, and culturally threatened. The importance of one or all of these convictions risks being obscured by cultural trends outside the church, and disputes about the mechanics and style of worship within the church. This attempt to reiterate and reinforce the importance of these ten core convictions will lead, we pray, to more fruitful (if not necessarily easier) conversations about the meaning and practice of Christian worship.

CONTEXTUAL

These ten criteria are applicable not only in specific cultural settings. They have as much to say about corporate worship offered in Kenya or Korea as in Canada or the United States. They are the kind of questions that apply to contextual ministry in any setting.

THEOLOGICAL

They are also theological. They emerge not only out of historical study or aesthetic preference, but also out of reflection on the mystery of the gospel that Christians proclaim. Long-term vital worship doesn't come out of singing a little faster, praying a little harder, or making worship a bit more proper or a bit more fun. Vital worship can issue only from the depth and mystery of the gospel that Christians proclaim. Christian worship is strongest when it is integrally and self-consciously related to the person and work of Jesus Christ and the power of the Holy Spirit.

CHRISTIAN WORSHIP IS ENRICHED BY...

1. a vivid awareness of the beauty, majesty, mystery, and holiness of the triune God

Worship cultivates our knowledge and imagination about who God is and what God has done. Worship gives us a profound awareness of the glory, beauty, and holiness of God. Each element of worship can be understood through a Trinitarian framework. Worship renewal is best sustained by attention to the triune God we worship.

2. the full, conscious, active participation of all worshipers, as a fully intergenerational community

Worship is not just what ministers, musicians, and other leaders do; it is what all worshipers “do”—through the work of the Spirit in worship. In vital worship, all worshipers are involved in the actions, words, and meaning of worship.
God’s covenant promises endure “from generation to generation.” Worship that arises out of an intentionally intergenerational community, in which people of all ages are welcomed as full participants, and whose participation enriches each other, reflects that worship breaks down barriers of age.

3. deep engagement with scripture
The Bible is the source of our knowledge of God and of the world’s redemption in Christ. Worship should include prominent readings of Scripture, and engage worshipers through intentional reading practices, art, and music. It should present and depict God’s being, character, and actions in ways that are consistent with scriptural teaching. It should follow biblical commands about worship practices, and it should heed scriptural warnings about false and improper worship. In particular, Christian worship should be deeply connected to its ancient roots in psalmody.

4. joyful and solemn celebrations of baptism and the Lord’s Supper
The sacraments are physical signs of God’s nourishing action in creation through the Holy Spirit. In baptism God puts his covenant mark on his children, adopts them into the church, and calls them to a lifetime of dying and rising with Christ. In the Lord’s Supper, God physically and spiritually feeds his people. These celebrations are not just ceremonies, but gifts of grace and signs of God’s ongoing work.

5. an open and discerning approach to culture
Worship should strike a healthy balance among four approaches or dimensions to its cultural context: worship is transcultural (some elements of worship are beyond culture), contextual (worship reflects the culture in which it is offered), cross-cultural (worship breaks barriers of culture through worship), and counter-cultural (worship resists the idolatries of its cultural context).

6. disciplined creativity in the arts
Worship is enriched by artistic creativity in many genres and media, not as ends to themselves or as open-ended individual inspirations, but all disciplined by the nature of worship as a prophetic and priestly activity.

7. collaboration with all other congregational ministries
Congregational worship is mutually enriching to the full range of congregational ministries, including pastoral care, education, spiritual formation, and witness.

8. warm, Christ-centered hospitality for all people
A central feature of worship is that it breaks down barriers to welcome all worshipers, including persons with disabilities, those from other cultures, both seekers and lifelong Christians, and others.
9. intentional integration between worship and all of life
Worship fosters natural and dynamic connections between worship and life, so that the worship life of Christian congregations both reflects and shapes lives of grateful obedience, deeply engages with the needs of the world, including such specific areas as restorative justice, care for the earth, and many other areas.

10. collaborative planning and evaluation
Worship involves a collaborative process for planning and evaluating services in the context of an adaptive approach to overall congregational leadership.

THE ‘JAZZ’ OF WORSHIP PLANNING

<thead>
<tr>
<th>BIBLE-SHAPED WISDOM</th>
<th>In our work at the Calvin Institute of Christian Worship and the Center for Excellence in Preaching, we are eager to draw deeply from Bible-shaped wisdom of classic Christian liturgies throughout the centuries, and to express that wisdom through a sampling of the wide variety of cultural, musical, and artistic forms used in congregations around the world. This pastoral task involves a challenging interplay of freedom and form, of bringing to expression a deep unity-in-diversity, diversity-in-unity.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>FORM AND FREEDOM</td>
<td>Over the past few year, we’ve become aware again of how many communities—all over the world—are wrestling with this interplay of freedom and form. Jazz music features remarkable bursts of freedom, creativity, and soulful expression, but those bursts of freedom depend entirely on the common use of a well-crafted chord pattern, which each musician accepts as a kind of musical discipline. Likewise, the faithful, soulful expression of Christian worship is deeply strengthened when we accept spiritual and liturgical disciplines that are grounded in the gospel itself. Here is a brief, suggestive list of some of these key disciplines.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>KEY DISCIPLINES</td>
<td>1. Begin liturgy with God’s words of greeting and invitation, and end with God’s words of charge and blessing, affirming that God’s words are the first and last word in worship and life.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2. Engage with God not only in praise and thanksgiving, but also in confession and lament—a reflection of the full spectrum of human experience and an acknowledgement that we live in the “already, but not yet” of God’s kingdom.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3. Throughout worship, feature the interplay of God’s words to us and our words to God—a covenantal conversation. This helps us experience and renew the promise-based baptismal relationship that God invites us into through Christ.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
4. Include Trinitarian prayers which convey how we depend on the Holy Spirit to work in and through our praying, preaching, and participation in the sacraments, and how we cherish Jesus’ role as our only high priest, the perfect mediator of our prayers.

5. Dwell in scripture, Old Testament and New Testament, as it is read and preached, presenting and responding to God’s Word as an indispensable source of spiritual sustenance.

6. Stretch intercessory prayers to convey the breadth of God’s promised work in the world. What we pray for in public powerfully witnesses to what we believe God is doing and can do in the world. We signal trust in God when we pray for local and global concerns, for the environment and humanity, and for the church and culture, as well as individual concerns.

7. Participate deeply as God’s children gathered at Jesus’ table, where we celebrate a meal of memory, communion, and hope, a celebration of hospitality, justice, and covenant renewal.

8. Look for ways to strengthen participation and mutual service of young and old, seeker and lifelong believer, and people with a variety of gifts, abilities, and challenges.

9. View each action of worship as a formative, super-concentrated Christian practice that we echo and practice in our daily lives—practices that range from saying “I’m sorry” (confession) or “I’m listening” (illumination) or “peace be with you” (passing of the peace) or “What can I do?” (dedication). As “God’s language school,” liturgy teaches us ways of speaking to God and each other that lead us to be more faithful disciples of Jesus.

These are a sampling of the core convictions that have guided us as we have shaped worship services for this conference, guiding us as we draw on a wide range of artistic and musical styles and ways of using projected and printed texts. We encourage you to adapt this list for your context and to let us know what you are learning about the interplay of form and freedom. We pray that these disciplines may become a strong basis for faithful, imaginative, and soulful worship, used by God’s Spirit to strengthen the unity and vitality of our life together in Christ.

COMPLEMENTARY APPROACHES FOR MUSIC

Throughout the conference, we’ve sung some songs from printed notation, others from projected text and lyrics, others from projected text, and others that are led orally, without anything printed. During the past few years, we have noticed congregations rethinking how to do this best. Some churches that project everything have rediscovered the value of printing some things, as a way to encouraging singing with harmony or with greater introspection.
Some churches that sing from only printed sources have discovered the value of projecting some things, as a way to encourage hands free singing. Churches of all kinds are learning to find good ways to assist worshipers with vision loss, who often are not able to read small print or see items projected on distant screens. We would love to learn what you are learning about this! Simply email worship@calvin.edu with your comments or insights.

“PLEASE RISE, IN BODY OR IN SPIRIT”

INCLUSION AND UNIVERSAL DESIGN

Worship can be designed from the start to include people with a wide range of abilities and disabilities, gifts and limitations. Examples of “universal design” approaches at our worship services this week include: gluten free bread available at the celebration of the Lord’s Supper; use of the phrase “please rise, in body or in spirit”; use of large-print materials and/or availability of printed orders of service for use on various devices; availability of sign language upon request; use of printed orders of service in several services, which supports those who worship best with a predictable schedule to follow; monitoring of the overall volume of projected sound to support those who process sounds differently or who may be using sound amplification devices; flexible seating and ramps to worship spaces; loop system for those with hearing devices; and planned multisensory options to best engage each participants, such as availability of hand tools for those who listen best when their hands are active. As Barbara J. Newman and her colleagues have been teaching us, once these kinds of universal design elements are in place, many more people can find a home in worship, and the benefits often extend to many people who may not identify a need for assistance.

THURSDAY DAY-LONG RETREATS

New Song. A Skillful Song.
Tony Alonso, Emily R. Brink, Greg Scheer (moderator), and Liz Vice
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 264 255
Those of us who feel Psalm 33’s call to write new songs must remember that the psalm also tells us to play skillfully. In this seminar we will focus on the skills of songwriting for congregations, digging into what it means to balance inspiration and perspiration. Join these singer-songwriters as they speak about their approaches to creating new texts, new tunes, and the combining of texts and tunes. The afternoon will be spent discussing participants’ song submissions. Attendees of all levels and musical styles will benefit from this seminar. (Break: Covenant Fine Arts Center, West Lobby; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)
While We Are Waiting, Yielded and Still

Dale Cooper

3230 Burton Street

This retreat will be limited to 15 people who will spend time together in a home setting, also enjoying fellowship over the noon meal. In this day of quiet together, we will ponder afresh “how deep the Father’s love for us;” enjoy “sweet communion” with Jesus; and pledge anew, God’s Spirit helping us, “with one holy passion,” to return our Lover’s love. (Break: Hekman Library Lobby (then board shuttle); Lunch: 3230 Burton Street)

THURSDAY MORNING SEMINARS

The Bible in Worship: Deep Engagement with Scripture in a Culture of Low Biblical Literacy

Kevin Adams, Gary Burge, Constance Cherry, Meg Jenista Kuykendall, and Noel Snyder (moderator)

Covenant Fine Arts Center, Recital Hall

Almost every church affirms engagement with Scripture as a vital—even central—element of their worship services. Yet preachers and worship leaders are increasingly aware of the need for “remedial” work to be done for worshipers to engage well with Scripture. In a post-Christendom context, no assumptions can be made about basic biblical knowledge and understanding. This seminar will explore strategies for engaging Scripture in worship in a culture marked by low biblical literacy. (Break: Covenant Fine Arts Center, West Lobby; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)

La Intima Relación entre el culto a Dios y la Etica Social

Mariano Avila

Calvin Theological Seminary, Chapel

Los profetas Isaías, Amós, y Malaquías (entre otros) mostraron la íntima relación entre el amor a Dios y el amor al prójimo. Denunciaron la manera en que sus contemporáneos separaban el culto a Dios de su conducta cotidiana hacia sus semejantes. “¿Cómo podemos decir que amamos a Dios, a quien no vemos, si no amamos a nuestro prójimo, a quien sí vemos?” Estas lecciones siguen estando vigentes hoy día para nosotros. En español. (Break: Calvin Theological Seminary, Auditorium Lobby; Lunch: Calvin Theological Seminary, Student Center)
Loving our Muslim Neighbors
John A. Azumah, Lisa Hoogeboom, Shannon Jammal-Hollemans, Matthew Kaemingk, Eric Sarwar, Cory Willson (moderator)

Calvin Theological Seminary, Upper Room
Practicing love is more demanding that citing Scriptures that speak about love. Nowhere does this seem more pressing for Christians in North America than when it comes to loving Muslims. Muslims are no longer only those we in North America hear about from overseas missionaries on furlough. We meet them as neighbors, co-workers, fellow citizens, and family members. In many places, churches are struggling to address the needs of discipling Christians who can demonstrate love toward Muslims in their life. What are effective ways to build positive and trusting relationships with Muslims? What type of hospitality and friendship is meaningful for Muslims? What types of formation do Christians need to be engaged in to effectively address the questions, fears, and prejudices that inhibit our acts of love towards Muslims? (Break: Calvin Theological Seminary, Auditorium Lobby; Lunch: Calvin Theological Seminary, Student Center)

Worship and Christian Community Development
David M. Bailey (moderator), Mark Charles, Angie Hong, Jack Kooreman, Robert Chao Romero, and Sandra Maria Van Opstal

Prince Conference Center, Willow Room
More and more congregations are embracing God’s call to seek the renewal and long-term health of their neighborhoods through commitments to sustainable holistic ministries not just for those near them, but with them. How does this vision shape those congregations’ public worship services? What difference does this make for preaching, public prayer, music, the arts, and celebrations of baptism and the Lord’s Supper? How do worship and community development work together—synergistically—as congregations seek to live out the call of the gospel of Jesus Christ? (Break and Lunch: Prince Conference Center)

Multilingual Singing for English-Speaking Congregations
Robert Batastini, Kai Ton Chau, Nina Ciesielski, Maria Eugenia Cornou (moderator), Jaewoo Kim, Ron Rienstra, Rebecca Snippe (moderator), and Marcell Steuernagel

Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 115
One of the greatest gifts we have is the ability to worship our Lord together as the body of Christ. But with the global church at our doorstep, many worship planners and leaders in English-speaking congregations face questions of how to embrace a global liturgy. How can we sing songs from the global church well, especially when we don’t know the language or the correct rhythms? How do we find resources for leading worship that is both local and global? This seminar will include worship leaders, choir directors, and resource publishers from a variety of worshiping communities, denominations, and cultural backgrounds addressing the different ways global singing is done in their communities, why their communities sing in multiple languages, and practical tips for gradually introducing the songs of the global church into worshiping communities. (Break: Covenant Fine Arts Center, West Lobby; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)

Trinitarian Sacramental Theology
Kimberly Hope Belcher, J. Todd Billings, Glenn Packiam, M. Sydney Park, Laura A. Smit, and John D. Witvliet (moderator)

Prince Conference Center, Great Hall
It is a remarkable Christian claim that God is active not only in receiving our worship, but also in inspiring, prompting, and perfecting it—drawing us into communion with God and each other. It is also remarkable that God would do this through embodied, material human actions of washing, eating, and drinking. Yet often this central Christian vision is forgotten, ignored, or distorted, and all sorts of believers are never given the opportunity to taste and see God’s beauty in this vivid and nourishing way. This session will be a doxological session, full of praise to God for this gift. It will also be instructive, pointing to key resources in the Christian tradition for further exploring this vision. And it will be practical, suggesting ideas for teaching, preaching, and public worship that live into this rich vision. (Break and Lunch: Prince Conference Center)

Hidden Prophets of the Bible: Finding the Gospel in Hosea through Malachi
Amanda Benckhuysen, Scott Hoezee (moderator), and Michael Williams

Calvin Theological Seminary, Auditorium
Who are the minor prophets? What do they have to say? Why should any of us care? This delegation of twelve strange men has arrived at our church from their obscure biblical backwaters. Should we let them in? This seminar will explore the contours of these biblical books with an eye toward teaching and preaching them vibrantly. (Break: Calvin Theological Seminary, Auditorium Lobby; Lunch: Calvin Theological Seminary, Student Center)

Worship in Christian Educational Institutions
Susan Burner, Bo H. Lim, Emmett G. Price III, Rod Reed, Anthony Ruff, OSB, and Joanna Wigboldy (moderator)

Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 135
Many Christian educational institutions aim to provide an integrated educational experience in which students grow spiritually. In an institution that exists primarily to educate, what is the role of public worship in the formation of students? Rod Reed will explore five questions that identify and address the unique challenges and goals of public worship on the Christian campus. Panelists from a variety of higher education contexts will then share the ways in which Reed’s questions speak to the way they approach worship on their own campuses. These questions are sure to prompt deep discussion around your institution’s worship. Come with your team! (Break: Covenant Fine Arts Center, West Lobby; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)

Worship 101: Skills & Drills for the Emerging Worship Leader
Calvin College Worship Apprentices and Paul Ryan
College Chapel, Undercroft
What skills are needed for faithful worship leadership? How does an aspiring worship leader develop these skills? In this seminar we will introduce two essential practices: leading in prayer and leading in song. For each practice, we will explore multiple drills that emerging worship leaders can repeat in order to grow in confidence and ability. This seminar is designed especially for emerging worship leaders and those who mentor them. (Break: College Chapel, Undercroft; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)

Godspeed: Holy Pacing for Faithful Ministry
Julie Canlis
Prince Conference Center, Board Room
How can we be faithful disciples of Jesus in a frantically busy world? What can we learn about the pace of faithful ministry? Come explore the compelling world of rural Scotland and what it taught a family engaged in contemporary parish ministry. Learn from one of the key collaborators in a 35-minute documentary, Godspeed, and begin to discern God’s calling on the pacing of your own life. Together we will engage in conversations about holy pacing for faithful ministry in your own communities. (Break and Lunch: Prince Conference Center)

Worship and Faith Formation through the Life Cycle
Lynn Barger Elliott, Laura Kelly Fanucci, Syd Hielema, Barbara J. Newman, Kathy Smith (moderator)
Meeter Center Lecture Hall
How do children worship best? How can worship help young people through the teen and young adult years? What practices of worship resonate most with adults and elderly people? And how can we include people of all abilities in worship? This seminar will look at the human life cycle and the developmental stages that all people grow through in their faith formation, and we’ll consider what this means for how people of all ages and abilities can participate fully in worship. (Break: Hekman Library Lobby; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)
Leading Congregational Song from the Organ Bench

John Ferguson  replacement: James Bobb
College Chapel
John Ferguson will explore concepts from registrations to basic improvisational techniques to help organists nurture congregational song during worship and encourage singing with greater understanding and spirit. Organists interested in being coached during the seminar are encouraged to prepare a hymn from Lift Up Your Hearts, including an introduction, as if it were for a worship service. (Break: College Chapel, Undercroft; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)

Hands-on Clay: Create, Reflect, Celebrate  CANCELED

Anna Greidanus
Spoelhof Center, Ceramic Studio, Room 106
Join an invitation to engage human hands and the material of the earth as a means of expressing beyond words. This seminar in clay will emphasize the gifts of human imagination, the responsive nature of clay as material, and gestures of the hand. Exploring clay as vehicle and metaphor in contemplative expression, material-based exercises encourage ideas for artistic engagement in worship. Explore intersections of creativity, reflection, and celebration with no previous studio art experience required. Artists in any medium also welcome. (Break: Spoelhof Center lower level hallway; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)

Visual Liturgy: Illuminating Worship Spaces with Technology

Stephen Proctor
Spoelhof Center, Room 150
The advent of modern technology has opened a world of possibilities for creative worship. But many church leaders and artists are struggling with how to tastefully and artfully implement production without Sunday morning turning into a “show.” There is a tension to be explored here. In this seminar, we will talk about how to curate sacred spaces that illuminate rather than entertain. More specifically, we will look at examples of how visual media and technology can be used to care for our liturgical spaces. (Break: Spoelhof Center lower level hallway; Lunch: Commons Dining Hall)

Engaging Contemporary Prophetic Art: Posters for Hope, Peace, and Social Justice

John August Swanson
Catholic Information Center, Grand Rapids
Throughout church history, art has not only expressed Christian prayer but also embodied prophetic response to injustice. This artistic vision is beautifully expressed in the work of John August Swanson. For the last five years Swanson has been working out this vision in his posters on Peace and Social Justice. (Break: Hekman Library Lobby (then board shuttle); Lunch: Catholic Information Center)
LUNCH
See your Morning Seminar description for your lunch location.
Visit exhibit and display tables in the Covenant Fine Arts Center.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON SEMINARS

Framing Worship for Missional Engagement
Kevin Adams (moderator), Stephen De Wit, Angie Hong, and Glenn Packiam
Prince Conference Center, Willow Room
How is worship both historic and hospitable? How can timeless worship practices be winsome and missional, captivating the hearts and minds of both veteran believers and spiritual novices? The panel will describe the contours of leading worship and share best practices for worship within the tension of local contextualization and timeless catholicity.

Faith, Work, and Worship: The Strategic and Overlooked Role of Local Congregations
Katherine Leary Alsdorf, Laura Kelly Fanucci, Matthew Kaemingk, and Cory Willson (moderator)
Calvin Theological Seminary, Upper Room
Resources and initiatives to help Christians connect their faith with their work continue to proliferate in North America. However, what is often lacking in these discussions is a focus on local congregations and their role in engaging in this vital aspect of discipleship. This involves making connections between Sunday worship and weekday life in the world much more vivid through adapting worship practices, providing resources for daily devotional life, and challenging the frameworks for connecting worship and life that currently exist in our ministries. These connections mean quite different things for people in different stages of life and in different cultural and geographic contexts. How can we strengthen the connections between liturgy and faith and faith and work for young professionals, the unemployed, homemakers, and those approaching retirement? What intentional changes do churches need to make to form disciples equipped to pursue their daily work in light of their faith?

Worship and Culture
John A. Azumah, Monique M. Ingalls, Terry LeBlanc, Robert Chao Romero, Leopoldo A. Sánchez, and John D. Witvliet (moderator)
Prince Conference Center, Great Hall
All pastoral leaders, including worship leaders, are called to make decisions with discernment about culture. We are called to “not conform to this world” (Rom. 12) and yet to “be all things to all people” for the sake of the gospel (1 Cor. 9:22). At its best, Christian worship is richly contextual. It is also countercultural. To make discerned choices about how worship relates to culture, we need the wisdom of believers from many different cultural contexts to teach and guide us, to keep us from rejecting what should not be rejected and embracing what should not be embraced. We must learn from the church’s tragic mistakes over the centuries as well as from its examples of faithful witness and contextual adaptation. Panelists will offer reflections on massive historical problems such as colonialism, but they also will highlight cultural discernment decisions that present opportunities for faithfulness in individual churches. Our aim is for a global conversation that also feels very local.

11AM: Hope for America’s Most Segregated Hour
David M. Bailey with responses by Mark Charles
DeVos Communication Center, Bytwerk Video Theater
In the wake of increased racial tensions, an organization in Richmond, Virginia, steps into the fray with a fresh, bold vision: Raise up and train a new generation of artistic leaders to write a new narrative in the former capital of the Confederacy. With such diverse backgrounds, beliefs, and experiences, could this group of young musicians really bring hope for change to America’s most segregated hour? In this seminar we will watch this documentary film together and have a time of reflection and discussion.

Preaching, Praying, Singing, and the Wonders of Creation
Ryan Bebej, Deborah Haarsma, and Scott Hoezee (moderator)
Calvin Theological Seminary, Auditorium
Learning more about God’s creation through exploration, observation, and science enhances our worship, our preaching, and our adoration of our great God. This seminar will look at some specific facets of creation and consider how knowing such things expands our awe and so also our delight in talking about, singing about, and preaching about the Lord of all creation, whose glory is over all the universe.

Songwriters and Scholars in Partnership: Deepening Worship Music through Historical, Theological, and Scriptural Study
Bruce Benedict, Constance Cherry, Eddie Espinosa, Satrina Reid, and Noel Snyder (moderator)
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Recital Hall
There are countless songwriters who love the church and want to see local congregations flourish. The same may be said of scholars as well. Yet how often do these two worlds overlap—scholarship and songwriting? How often do these two groups team up to promote vital worship? Panelists will reflect on recent movements toward deepening worship music through promoting greater interaction between scholars and songwriters. Songwriters, scholars, pastors, worship leaders, and church members all will find something to be encouraged by in this conversation. You might even be inspired to form partnerships of your own!
THURSDAY AFTERNOON SEMINARS (CONTINUED)

Worship in Times of Crisis and Trauma
Anthony L. Bennett, Nancy Kingwood, Nikki Lerner, Bo H. Lim, Kathy Smith (moderator)
Meeter Center Lecture Hall
How can we plan and lead worship in the midst of a crisis or in the aftermath of a traumatic situation? Whether we’ve faced a school shooting or a racially fueled event or simply recognized the many traumatic experiences in the lives of the people in our congregations, we need to understand the issues involved and be able to process them well in the context of worshiping God. We need to lead the people in expressing their laments to God as well as assure them of God’s healing presence. This seminar will share the wisdom of leaders who’ve been “through the fire” and are eager to help others learn how to prepare for the crises and traumas ahead—because they will come!

Baptism as an Act of Pastoral Care
Joyce Borger (moderator), David Den Haan, Sam Gutierrez, Cindy Holtrop, Emily Vanden Heuvel, Karl VanHarn, and Lisa M. Weaver
Hiemenga Hall, Room 334
We often think of ourselves as passive witnesses when we are present for the baptism of another person. But could it be that there is a lot more going on? What changes when we view each baptism as our own renewal ceremony? What difference might the remembrance of our baptismal identity make in our daily living? How might pastoral care draw on the significance of our baptism? Listen to this panel of pastors and practitioners as together we examine the sacrament of baptism, its meaning and significance, and how it might be a foundation for pastoral work with those of us living with mental illnesses, struggling with questions of identity, approaching death, or other life challenges.

Worship 101: Skills & Drills for the Emerging Worship Planner
Calvin College Worship Apprentices and Paul Ryan
College Chapel, Undercroft
How does one design worship to enable the full participation of the people? What practices for emerging worship planners are best to acquire? In this seminar we will introduce two vital practices for planning worship: choosing songs and choosing Scripture. For each practice we will explore multiple drills that emerging worship planners can repeat in order to grow in creativity and faithfulness. This seminar is designed especially for emerging worship planners and those who mentor them.
Godspeed: Holy Pacing for Faithful Ministry
Julie Canlis
Prince Conference Center, Board Room
How can we be faithful disciples of Jesus in a frantically busy world? What can we learn about the pace of faithful ministry? Come explore the compelling world of rural Scotland, and what it taught a family engaged in contemporary parish ministry. Learn from one of the key collaborators in a 35-minute documentary, Godspeed, and begin to discern God’s calling on the pacing of your own life. Together we will engage in conversations about holy pacing for faithful ministry in your own communities.

We All Worship: Dis-Abling the Ways We Are Gathered and Sent
Benjamin T. Conner, Barbara J. Newman, and L. S. Carlos Thompson
Hiemenga Hall, Room 336
Participants will consider the theological rationale for implementing a Universal Design for Learning (UDL) approach to congregational worship and discipleship. They will be introduced to three key UDL principles and will be given examples of UDL in action in congregations. The session will also attempt to embody the principles being taught.

How Music Deepens Participation in the Lord’s Supper and Baptisms: Insights from Global Cultures
Maria Eugenia Cornou (moderator), Birgitta Johnson, Jean Ngoya Kidula, Yvette Lau, Arbin Pokharel, Eric Sarwar, and Marcell Steuernagel
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 115
All around the world, Christians sing together before, during, and/or after celebrating the Lord’s Supper and baptism. Learn from the richly varied practices of communities all over the world. Explore memorable, deeply loved heartsongs for these occasions in a variety of cultural contexts. Reflect on your own context and the heartsongs you already know, love, and use regularly. Discern how your own congregation’s diet of heartsongs might grow over the next few years as a way of entering even more deeply into the beauty of these celebrations.

You Expect Me to Do What with These?! An Introduction to the Art of Handbell Ringing
Norma de Waal Malefy
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 125
This seminar is an introduction to the techniques of group handbell ringing and its potential for use as a small group ministry of a church or a worshipping community. Those registering for this hands-on seminar should be able to read musical notation.
Mentoring Young Worship Leaders in the Church
Lynn Barger Elliott, M. Sydney Park, Nicole Saint-Victor, Dale Sieverding, SLD, and Joanna Wigboldy (moderator)
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 135
What role do young people have in leading worship in your congregation? In this session, participants will learn from the experience of ministry leaders from multiple church contexts. This session will provide a framework and practical tips for adults interested in starting or honing their practices of mentoring middle and high school worship leaders in their congregation.

The Father and His Two Sons: A Story of Homecoming
Laura de Jong (moderator), Larry Gerbens, Steve Prince, Edward Riojas, and John August Swanson
Spoelhof Center, Room 150
The parable of the prodigal son in Luke 15 is one of the most powerful and evocative stories Jesus told. Its universal themes of greed and regret, arrogance and repentance, sin and redemption, jealousy and acceptance, and compassionate forgiveness resonate richly with each retelling. This parable has inspired the work of artists throughout the centuries. In many times and places and using many methods and media, artists have sought to visualize this story. Despite the differences in their work, the message of God’s love remains constant. Join three artists and their collector in this conversation around the art and story of forgiveness as illustrated by the parable of the prodigal son.

Hands on Clay: Create, Reflect, Celebrate CANCELED
Anna Greidanus
Spoelhof Center, Ceramic Studio, Room 106
Join an invitation to engage human hands and the material of the earth as a means of expressing beyond words. La próxima adoración
Sandra Maria Van Opstal
Calvin Theological Seminary, Chapel
La Mesa es una imagen dominante para los seguidores de Cristo que se reúnen juntos para adorarlo. Comunica amistad, compromiso e intimidad. La iglesia necesita líderes que trabajen con el objetivo de ver a cada tribu y lengua presente, reconciliada y dispuesta a celebrar la diversidad en la Mesa de la adoración en comunidad. Este taller está diseñado para inspirar y equipar a los líderes para dirigir la adoración multiétnica y multilingüe en el contexto de las iglesias locales. Este seminario proporcionará herramientas prácticas aprendidas de experiencias concretas tanto en entornos globales como urbanos.

Framing Worship for Missional Engagement

Kevin Adams, Stephen De Wit, and Jill Ver Steeg

Covenant Theological Seminary, Upper Room

This workshop will encourage, inspire, and offer wisdom to those determined to missionally engage spiritually illiterate church attenders. We will practice framing elements of the timeless worship ordo in a way that helps all congregants see the ordo’s inherent winsomeness and contagious mission shape. Attendees will be empowered to find their own worship voice rooted in the best and deepest Christian practices and customized for their congregations and neighborhoods.

In Splendid, Varied Ways: Preparing Music for Intercultural Worship

Tony Alonso

Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 222

This presentation will explore critical dimensions of music in intercultural worship: What does it sound like? Who is leading it? How is it prepared? How is it evaluated? Grounded in pastoral practice in a range of communities in the United States as well as in guiding documents on multicultural worship, we will discuss how far we have come and how far we must go to embrace the rich diversity of the contemporary landscape in our sung prayer.

Conversation on Beyond Teamwork: Cultivating Spiritual Community Among Your Worship Leaders

Ruth Haley Barton, hosted by Jeff Sajdak

College Chapel, Room 214

An opportunity for conference attendees to ask questions related to the plenary session.
WORKSHOP A (CONTINUED)

Four Practices for Life-giving Community
Timothy Blackmon
Calvin Theological Seminary, Auditorium
Whether you lead a church, a ministry, or a not for profit organization, this workshop explores indispensable practices for helping all organizations flourish and thrive.

Forum for High School Students (Saturday only)
Calvin College Worship Apprentices
Commons Annex, Lecture Hall
All high school students are invited to this informal testimony time led by the Calvin College Worship Apprentices. Listen to their stories of being called to worship leadership at Calvin, what they have been learning this school year as a worship team, and more.

Tools for Planning Worship
Kai Ton Chau, Greg Scheer, Rebecca Snippe, and Joanna Wigboldy
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 224
This workshop will feature three excellent tools for planning and leading worship: Preachingandworship.org, Hymnary.org, and Reformedworship.org. Whether you are familiar with these resources or need an introduction, you will leave with several ideas on how to navigate and utilize these resources with your worship planning team.

Ways We Witness: Disability and the Mission of the Church
Benjamin T. Conner
Hiemenga Hall, Room 333
With the statement “You shall be my witnesses,” Jesus set the trajectory for the book of Acts and established the vocation of the church today. What does it mean to be witnesses to the kingdom of God as part of a church that includes in its body people with disabilities and in a world where disabling conditions are an unsurprisingly normal aspect of human existence? What are some ways that the experience of disability can critique, shape, and enrich practices of Christian witness?

Conversation on The Many Streams of African American Congregational Song with the editorial team of One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism
G. Ingrid Faniel, Birgitta Johnson, Carl MaultsBy, and Anthony B. Vinson Sr. (Friday)
James Abbington, Robert Battistini, Jason Max Ferdinand, Bryan Johnson, and Judith McAllister (Saturday)
Hosted by Lisa M. Weaver
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 264
An opportunity for conference attendees to ask questions related to the plenary session.
Worship Leading Then and Now: A Conversation with Eddie Espinosa

Eddie Espinosa and Noel Snyder
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 252
How has worship leadership changed in the last thirty years? What approaches have come and gone? In this Q&A Eddie Espinosa, worship leader with the Vineyard movement for more than twenty years and composer of many well-loved worship songs, reflects with Worship Institute staff member Noel Snyder about what God has been teaching him as a worship leader over the years.

Moving Worship: Encouragement to Engage Our Bodies in Worship
Julia Start Fletcher
Spoelhof Center, Gezon Auditorium
This session is designed for anyone curious about dance as well as those with dance experience. Participants will engage in conversation around the questions “What is liturgical dance?” and “How can I equip my congregation with the tools to feel comfortable moving?” Learn how to encourage movement with choreography to the Lord’s Prayer that’s accessible to those of all abilities, and understand how to cultivate an atmosphere of trust.

Making Worship a Verb for All Ages: Cultivating Worship Awareness and Inviting Response
Terri Gaeddert and Rosi Penner Kaufman
Hiemenga Hall, Room 334
WorshipArts at Rainbow Mennonite Church in Kansas City is a program for K-5th grade congregants. Influenced by the Reggio Emilia teaching and learning approach, this program offers children the opportunity to respond to worship, ask questions, and become more aware of the language, ritual, movement, sound, and art incorporated in worship. A Vital Worship Grant from the Calvin Worship Institute in 2014-15 provided the resources to expand awareness and integration of the program more fully into the worship life of the Rainbow congregation.

Visual Arts 101: An Exploration of Its Purpose-full Role in Worship Today
Betsy Steele Halstead
Hiemenga Hall, Room 335
Visual arts can reflect the deeper meaning and purpose of worship. We will explore how visual arts have influenced corporate worship and how art plays a broad range of roles in worship. We will discover the biblical foundation for encouraging disciplined creativity, see how every space speaks theologically, and consider the purpose-full visual elements of worship.

The Intergenerational Church and the Home: Supporting Each Other’s Worship and Faith Formation Practices (Friday only)
Syd Hielema
Hiemenga Hall, Room 336
Worshiping communities and homes are intergenerational partners in encouraging mutual worship and faith formation. This mutual support takes careful cultivation of healthy habits and practices, bridge building between the two, and a great deal of perseverance focused on the telos. This workshop will explore why this mutuality is crucial and will provide dozens of practical ideas for taking wise steps with church leaders, parents and grandparents, and caregivers.

With Healing in His Wings: Preaching Luke’s Gospel of Justice and Wholeness
Scott Hoezee
Calvin Theological Seminary, Room 241
Luke may well be one of the best writers ever to be used by the inspiration of the Spirit to write biblical books. Luke’s gospel is well known for its themes related to justice and healing. As the Year C Lectionary will focus on Luke in 2019, this workshop will summarize key characteristics of Luke’s gospel and highlight preaching ideas and strategies for conveying Luke’s liberating message of salvation and celebration.

Worship in an Egalitarian Zone: Equitable Practices for Kingdom Worship
Angie Hong
Hiemenga Hall, Room 337
How can we imagine our corporate worship services as opportunities to practice equity across lines of gender, race, socioeconomics, and sexuality? Using the economic model of “egalitarian zones” in our faith communities, we will explore ways to facilitate worship that include everyone at the table. Specific methods, strategies, and resources will be shared, and there will be time for us to imagine new ways of liturgical living relevant to our own contexts.

The Enriching Practice of Using Multiple Bible Translations in Corporate Worship
Lisa Hoogeboom
Hiemenga Hall, Room 331
The public reading and singing of the Bible, an integral part of worship for millennia, can be remarkably enriched by the integration of diverse translations and versions. In this workshop we will discuss the benefits of “straying” from a single version, including a deeper understanding of the nature of God and of the Scriptures and the development of a spirit of unity with fellow believers in an age too often marked by divisiveness and discord. Along the way we will reference current issues in translation such as gendered language, and we will consider the role of Scriptural paraphrases such as The Message.
Worship for Workers: (Re)Connecting Sunday and Monday Morning
Matthew Kaemingk
Hiemenga Hall, Room 315
A chasm exists for the people of God between their worship on Sunday morning and their work on Monday morning. One is seen as purely sacred and the other as purely secular. One is understood as holy and beautiful while the other is understood to be profane and mundane. This workshop will explore why this chasm exists, why it is problematic for both our worship and our work, and how worship leaders can help their congregations overcome it.

Going to Church with Augustine
Han-luen Kantzer Komline
Hiemenga Hall, Room 316
What would it have been like to worship with Augustine in Hippo? Even more specifically, what would it have been like to experience him as a preacher? In this workshop we will reenact some of the tangible and audible elements of an Augustinian sermon, analyze a short specimen of Augustinian preaching, and reflect on what this experience of “going to church with Augustine” reveals about Augustine’s context, his larger theology of preaching and worship, and our own contemporary assumptions and practices.

Worship and Culture: A Conversation
Terry LeBlanc and John D. Witvliet
Meeter Center Lecture Hall
All pastoral leaders, including worship leaders, are called to make decisions with discernment about culture. We are called to “not conform to this world” (Rom. 12) and yet to “be all things to all people” for the sake of the gospel (1 Cor. 9:22). At its best, Christian worship is richly contextual. It is also countercultural. To make discerned choices about how worship relates to culture, we need the wisdom of believers from many different cultural contexts to teach and guide us as well as to keep us from rejecting what should not be rejected and embracing what should not be embraced. We must learn from the church’s tragic mistakes over the centuries as well as from its examples of faithful witness and contextual adaptation. Join Terry LeBlanc and John Witvliet as they explore these issues and some deep historical problems along with present-day opportunities for faithfulness in individual churches.

The Four Perspectives: Preaching the Broad Scope of Divine Drama
Ahmi Lee
Calvin Theological Seminary, Room 242
How can preachers be attentive to the full account of God’s story while being aware of the contexts where we must enact the reality of being in Christ? In this workshop we will examine four essential practices that guide preachers in sermon preparation.

10 Ways to Appropriately Respond to Racially-Fueled Events
Nikki Lerner
College Chapel
Where is the manual for this? How does your ministry respond appropriately when events happen? Move from fear to freedom as you are empowered with creative ideas, inspiration, and safe conversation that will help you know how to lead effectively during divisive times.

Encoded Hope in Evangelical Worship (Friday only)
Glenn Packiam
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 255
What do Christians sing about when they sing about hope? This workshop explores the kind of hope encoded in contemporary worship songs that are said to bring hope to the worshiper.

How to Play (and use) Psalms
The Psalm Project
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Recital Hall
Learn with the members of The Psalm Project how to play and sing Psalms. Old hymns, Genevan tunes and other psalm arrangements (Taizé) in contemporary settings. Explore how can you use psalms in your service to let people participate, educate, contemplate and sing praise!

Modelos de santificación (Friday only)
Leopoldo A. Sánchez
Calvin Theological Seminary, Chapel
Tanto en la Escritura como en la historia antigua y presente de la iglesia, la santificación se define de acuerdo a diversas narrativas y experiencias. En este taller presentaremos diversas imágenes de la santificación, mostrando cómo cada imagen presenta la obra del Espíritu Santo, trata diversos retos de la vida cristiana, y atiende a distintas necesidades del ser humano. Se considerarán las implicaciones pedagógicas de cada imagen para el culto o la adoración de la iglesia, y las aplicaciones de la temática para la comunidad hispana-latina.

Inviting North American Neighbors into the Spiritual Life: Models of Sanctification from Spirit Christology in Conversation with US Studies on Spirituality (Saturday only)
Leopoldo A. Sánchez
Hiemenga Hall, Room 336
What are sociologists of religion, intergenerational gurus, and missional leaders saying about the spiritual struggles, needs, and hopes of North American neighbors today? How can church leaders tell compelling stories that might address these neighbors’ questions about spirituality? In this session, we will explore five models of life in the Spirit and ask how they might offer an opportunity for church leaders (including worship leaders) to dialogue with others and invite them into the spiritual life. One of the models deals with hospitality as a mark of the church, an important Christlike way of living in a world filled with immigrants and refugees.

Top Ten Choral Techniques for Church Choir Directors (Friday Saturday only)
Pearl Shangkuan

Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 115

This session will offer ten (and more!) tried and true choral techniques for church choir directors suitable for all ages to improve posture, tone, diction, phrasing, rhythm, intonation, and projection.

The Impact of History on Worship Today: Commemorating the 400th Anniversary of the Synod of Dort
Kathy Smith

Hiemenga Hall, Room 323

What does an event held 400 years ago mean for our worship and faith formation today? This workshop will highlight the key learnings of the Synod of Dort, held in 1618–1619 in the Netherlands to help the newly developing Protestant and Reformed churches sort out their beliefs and worship practices. Come and learn how this significant historical event continues to affect Christian theology and worship today in North America and around the world.

Sharing Our Stories: The Art of John August Swanson
John August Swanson

Spoelhof Center, Room 150

In this biographical workshop, Swanson will discuss and give an overview of his 50 years of fine art print making. He will examine the development of his artwork, and reflect on how he continues to redefine, reexamine, and revise ideas while creating his intricately detailed paintings, serigraphs, etchings, and giclées. He will exchange thoughts on the changing forms of his art, and the reaffirming of Christian values, such as: caring for each other, acting as peacemakers, and listening to each other. From his representations of Bible stories to his urban scenes of everyday life, and his circus and music works, he uses his visual gift to share our stories, and to show us that which brings us together.
Workshops are offered Friday and then repeated on Saturday unless noted.

Five Faces of Islam  Muslim Immigration, Christian Fear, and the Worship

John A. Azumah  Replacement: Matthew Kaemingk
Hiemenga Hall, Room 337

Officially, Islam has five articles of faith and five pillars or duties. Muslims are required to believe in the articles of faith and observe the duties. The sectarian differences among Muslims such as Sunni, Shia etc. are common knowledge. The five faces of Islam, however, is an attempt to look at the various ways different Muslims across sectarian divides have sought to express their faith. The five ways or “faces” we have categorized these different expressions are the Missionary, Mystical, Political, Militant and Progressive. An objective presentation of these faces will enable participants to appreciate the diverse ways Muslims understand and seek to manifest their faith in the world today. And more importantly, the workshop will explore appropriate Christian responses to each of the different faces.

Coaching on Universal Design for Worship

Sarah Jean Barton and Barbara J. Newman
Hiemenga Hall, Room 366

We have heard your requests for brainstorming help! Many communities are looking for very specific ideas for implementing universal design for worship to better include people with disabilities in their congregations. Sign up for a thirty-minute slot where you or a small team from your church can meet with Sarah and Barbara for some brainstorming.

When All Heaven Breaks Loose: Eschatology and Exceptions to Liturgical Norms

Kimberly Hope Belcher
Hiemenga Hall, Room 323

Liturgical norms about participating in worship are often broken, such as in crisis situations or when Christians are near death. We normally consider these pastoral exceptions, but using cases in which Protestant or Orthodox Christians have been permitted to receive Roman Catholic communion, Prof. Belcher will argue that they are eschatological exceptions. Christians in crisis experience the presence of the parousia, and express their confidence in a liberty from norms we ordinarily follow. In this sense, liturgical rules are made to be broken: that is, they construct a normal that allows us to recognize when all heaven is breaking loose. How can eschatology guide a broader application of these exceptions to the rules? Come find out!

The Costly Loss of the OT Prophets
Amanda Benckhuysen
Calvin Theological Seminary, Room 241

Old Testament prophetic texts are hard. They are hard to preach, and they can be hard to understand. Because of this—with the exception of a few messianic passages that show up during Advent and Holy Week—the prophetic books rarely get a hearing in most North American churches. Yet without the prophets we are left with a truncated understanding of the mission of God and God’s redemptive work. In this workshop we will explore common themes in the Old Testament prophets and their importance for shaping the Christian imagination today. We will also consider strategies and ideas for recovering the preaching and study of the prophets within our church communities.

Lift Up Your Hearts: 10 Things You May Not Know (Saturday only)
Joyce Borger
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 252

This workshop will appeal to current users, new users, and potential users of the hymnal Lift Up Your Hearts. It will expand your understanding of the hymnal itself and its accompanying resources for use in worship planning and more.

How to Preach from a Parable
Gary Burge
Calvin Theological Seminary, Auditorium

Speaking in parables was Jesus’ preferred form of teaching. Both his world and ours are drawn to these concise, poignant stories. This seminar will analyze the parable in its ancient cultural context, illustrate how parables can be interpreted, outline a few pitfalls, and provide a case study using one of Jesus’ most difficult stories, The Parable of the Friend at Midnight (Luke 11:1–13).

Developing a Canon of Song for Your Church
Constance Cherry
College Chapel

How much intentionality comes to bear on the collection of congregational songs your church sings over time? As worship leaders, we are responsible not only for choosing excellent songs, but also for providing for the overall balance and appropriateness of the church’s body of song.

Choral Reading Session
Pearl Shangkuan
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 115
This reading session features pieces for all seasons of the liturgical year in a variety of voicings and musical styles.
Friday: Choral repertoire from GIA Publications, Inc., including the CICW Choral Series
Saturday: Choral repertoire from the Augsburg Fortress and Morningstar Publishers catalogs

The Gift of Years: Growing Old and Preparing to Die Well as Twin Christian Callings
Dale Cooper
Hiemenga Hall, Room 334
Both Scripture and the church’s long tradition call Jesus-followers to steward well together their advancing years and approaching death. We’ll examine together some implications of that call.

From Generation to Generation: Training Young Pianists to Play in Worship
Norma de Waal Malefyt
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 222
This workshop will provide resources to help young (and not so young) pianists develop skills and strategies for accompanying congregational singing in worship. Examples will be taken from metrical hymnody and from more contemporary worship songs and will be designed for settings in which the primary musical leadership is offered on keyboard instruments.

Music as Exegetical Art
Discerning Stylistic Approaches to Congregational Hymns for Lent and Easter (Friday only)
John Ferguson replacement: James Bobb
College Chapel, Room 214
Does music inform the listeners’ encounter with the text of a hymn, anthem, or solo? John Ferguson will explore the exegetical, interpretive potential of music to inform our understanding of texts we sing or hear. We will consider examples that highlight different dimensions of a text or affect the perceived message of a text. This session will be of interest to those leading or selecting the songs we sing or hear at worship.

Forum for Christian High School Chapel Programs (Friday only)
Mary Hulst
Commons Annex, Lecture Hall
All Christian high school students and their leaders are invited to this informal time of mutual sharing and learning about the deep meaning and purpose of worship within the context of Christian high school worshiping communities.
Why Peer Learning Matters for Pastors and Preachers
Duane Kelderman
Hiemenga Hall, Room 315
Each Monday morning preaching pastors are keenly aware that Sunday’s coming, and it’s coming fast. How can pastors sustain themselves in their preaching ministries in ways that are life-giving, formative, and relational—qualities that will not only strengthen the pastor but also the entire worshiping community? One encouraging practice is forming a pastor peer learning group. This session explores the benefits—some predictable, some surprising—that preaching pastors report from being members of such a group and the ways seminary programs are structuring peer groups as an effective pedagogical tool for life-long learning and ministerial health.

Worshiping Following the Trauma of a School Shooting
Bo H. Lim
Hiemenga Hall, Room 320
In June 2014 the campus of Seattle Pacific University experienced the horror of a campus shooting spree resulting in the death of one student, injury to two others, and trauma to numerous students, staff, and faculty. Hours after the shooting occurred, the Seattle Pacific community gathered to worship in response to the tragedy. This service would be first of many held by the community over the next four years. This session will provide an overview of the vital theological, pastoral, educational, and practical issues for a Christian college responding in corporate worship to gun violence and communal trauma. The focus will be the role of corporate worship in healing, instruction, and public witness to the diverse community of a university comprising students, staff, faculty, and external constituents.

Li Ma
Hiemenga Hall, Room 331
What does it mean to be a Christian in China today? How do Christians there remember the past and remake the present? Li Ma, author of two books (Surviving the State, Remaking the Church and The Chinese Exodus), presents real-life stories of Christians who lived in different phases of political suppression in mainland China. The faithful witness of Chinese Christians as well as their failures remind North American Christians to resist both political and cultural ideologies prevalent in our contemporary world.

Philippians 2: Christian Unity by Self-Sacrifice
M. Sydney Park
Hiemenga Hall, Room 316
What does Paul mean when he says “count others as more significant than yourselves” in Philippians 2:3? In the modern culture of self-actualization, doesn't this sound like self-denigration? Even more significantly, how precisely can we as Christians demonstrate this mindset, particularly, in the context of Sunday worship? How does this affect one of the critical components of service—the proclamation of the word? This presentation will explore the necessity of self-sacrifice in the process of proclaiming and hearing the word, as well as the implications for preparation prior to that proclamation and consequence of ethics and disposition post proclamation. What self-sacrifice is required prior to proclamation for either the pastor or laity and what self-sacrifice results in light of the sermon? The Christ-like mindset of self-emptying will be explored from several dimensions of community life, especially in light of the centrality of God’s word on Sunday morning.

Beyond Labels: Encouraging Spiritual Formation in Millennials and Gen Z
Rod Reed
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Recital Hall
Headlines about millennials and Gen Z are everywhere, and many written about them (not by them) are critical, fearful, or frustrated about these generations. Is it possible to get beyond typecasting and stereotypes to discover unique opportunities and challenges for encouraging them to be formed into the image of Christ? In this workshop we will go beyond superficial tips about technology and work/life balance to explore the ways in which churches and Christian schools can create worshiping communities that engage these generations and the culture in which they live.

Artwork in the Church: Underscoring Holy Scripture
Edward Riojas
Hiemenga Hall, Room 333
The role of visual arts in the church has been debated over the centuries. The presence or lack of visual art has often helped to define church bodies, but questions remain: Why do it in the first place? How does it best benefit the worshiper? What can it mean? By exploring the works and installations of nationally known sacred artist Edward Riojas, these questions will be addressed in the context of the Christian church in a world in need of God’s saving grace.
The “Brown Church,” Christian Identity, and The Ordinary Practices of Christian Worship
Robert Chao Romero and John D. Witvliet
Meeter Center Lecture Hall
This session will offer a conversation with Robert Chao Romero about how worship practices relate to the themes of his forthcoming book, The Brown Church: Toward a Latina/o Christian Social Justice History and Identity. In churches in every cultural context, patterns of public prayer, preaching, music and the arts and other elements of worship often convey powerful implicit messages about the church’s relationships with colonialism, justice, and the power structures and assumptions of culture at large. One task for fruitful ministry is to learn to recognize these implicit messages, to confront the ways that they may distort the gospel, and to affirm ways in which they support the gospel. Come to learn from Prof. Romero’s remarkable experiences as a university professor and a pastoral mentor to justice advocates.

Musical Treasures, Liturgical Transformations
Anthony Ruff, OSB, with Emily R. Brink
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 251
Hear the story of Fr. Anthony Ruff’s life and ministry at the epicenter of the liturgical movement of the twentieth century for both Catholics and many Protestants. Learn how the liturgical community balances its cherished traditions of daily prayer, artistic excellence (e.g. St. John’s Bible), and the neverending changes in worship music energized by global Catholic communities. Explore Ruff’s passion for pastoral music in worship that is itself a spiritual practice, and learn the key insights he has gleaned from his comprehensive study of the history of Christian worship music.

The Little Church That Could: Working toward Worship Excellence in the Small Church
Greg Scheer
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 255
Worship conferences can be inspiring, but they often leave leaders of small churches thinking, “I could never do that.” While it’s likely true that small congregations can’t replicate the worship of conferences, mega-churches, or cathedrals, we can continue to move toward excellence in our own smaller settings. In this workshop, we will explore practical principles for fully utilizing the worship resources we have.
Truth that Awakens Holy Desire
Laura A. Smit
Hiemenga Hall, Room 335
The ideal preacher should be able both to convey the truths of the Christian faith clearly and to inspire a wholehearted commitment to living out those truths, but in practice most of us are better at one part of that equation than the other. One teacher who was very good at doing both was C. S. Lewis. In his book The Abolition of Man Lewis offers a clue about how to manage this integration. Lewis says there is an integrative quality in human beings that allows the true things we believe to become meaningful in our lives. He gives this quality a few different names—sometimes it is the quality of “the chest,” mediating between the reason of the head and the appetites of the belly, and sometimes it is magnanimity, which is the quality of having a great soul. Henry Scougal, another great teacher, famously said, “The worth and excellency of a soul can be measured by the object of its love.” The great-souled quality that Lewis described depends on loving and desiring what is worthy and excellent. In this session we’ll discuss ways to preach and teach “into the chest” in ways that awaken such love and desire.

Children’s Books about Worship
Kristen Verhulst, with María Eugene Cornou and Joel Schoon-Tanis
Hiemenga Hall, Room 336
There are a number of wonderful children’s books that help church school leaders, educators, parents, and grandparents teach children about worship. These books focus on the sacraments, the Christian year, the psalms, and prayer. Children’s books provide another means to welcome and engage children (and adults!) in worship as full members of the body of Christ. At the beginning of this session hear from the coauthor and illustrator of the new children’s book En la escuela de los Salmos/At Psalms School.
Workshop C

Workshops are offered Friday and then repeated on Saturday unless noted.

1. The Multiple Streams of African-American Worship Practices: Insights for the Global Church

   James Abbington, G. Ingrid Faniel, Jason Max Ferdinand, Michael Jordan, Carl MaultsBy, Anthony B. Vinson Sr., and Maurice Wright II (Friday)

   Birgitta Johnson, Bryan Johnson, Judith McAllister, and Lisa M. Weaver (Saturday)

   John D. Witvliet (moderator)

   Meeter Center Lecture Hall

   The gifts and treasures that have emerged from African American churches in North America are a blessing to so many churches all over the world. These gifts come from many different traditions within African-American Christianity. This session will explore the similarities and differences in these different traditions, some of the current needs and opportunities within these traditions, and reflect on how Christians from all over the world can learn from the treasures and gifts of these traditions.

2. Strengthening the Soul of Your Leadership

   Ruth Haley Barton

   Covenant Fine Arts Center, Recital Hall

   Do you ever feel as if your leadership is something you “put on” for particular occasions rather than a dynamic that emerges from deep within you? Is the pressure to perform compromising your own experience of worship? Do you find yourself manufacturing emotion as you lead others because your own intimacy with God has grown cold? In this workshop we will share honestly about the challenges of spiritual leadership in a high-performance culture. Ruth Haley Barton will help you assess the state of your soul and then explore crucial disciplines for strengthening the soul of your leadership.

3. Baptism and Christian Identity: Shaping Liturgical Practice from the Perspective of Disability

   Sarah Jean Barton

   Hiemenga Hall, Room 315

   Over the last decade, churches across the ecumenical spectrum have shown increasing interest in welcoming the gifts of people with disabilities. However, congregations often face practical, pastoral, and theological challenges to receive those gifts, particularly from people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. In this workshop we will consider the stories of people with intellectual disabilities in relationship to their experiences of baptism, baptismal vocation, and Christian identity. We will unpack key insights from this population and explore liturgical practices (including catechesis and baptismal reaffirmation) as ways to affirm baptismal identity and vocation regardless of disability. We will also discuss baptismally-rooted practices that provide increased opportunities for liturgical participation among people living with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

Why Engage with Science at Church?
Ryan Bebej and Deborah Haarsma
Calvin Theological Seminary, Upper Room
The broader culture frequently portrays science and faith as being at odds. Yet even for those who believe that the two can fit together harmoniously, scientific topics can sometimes lead to division within the church. So why should Christians bother integrating science and faith if these discussions can cause such strife? In this session we will discuss practical ways to engage science in ministry to promote unity, disciple young people, engender a sense of awe, and bring an effective testimony to the world.

Trinitarian Worship: What Difference Does It Make?
Joyce Borger
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 252
You know who the Trinity is, but what is all this talk about trinitarian worship? Isn’t all worship trinitarian? If not, what difference does it really make? This workshop will explore those questions and how a greater understanding of trinitarian worship can affect our worship planning, its structure, and its elements, and even how we lead.

Evaluating the Time Given to Elements of Worship
Constance Cherry
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 255
Does the amount of time given to various elements of worship (song, prayer, sermon, Scripture, sacraments) represent our priorities? Is it balanced? Cherry will discuss a study she conducted that explored these questions.

Lamento y esperanza: la oración de Habacuc en tiempos traumáticos (Friday only)
María Eugenia Cornou
Calvin Theological Seminary, Chapel
En este taller estudiaremos el libro de Habacuc, prestando especial atención al uso que el profeta hace de una práctica litúrgica poco habitual en nuestros cultos pero que vale la pena redescubrir. Situado en un tiempo de tragedia nacional, Habacuc recurre al lamento comunitario como aquel modelo de oración que puede ayudar a la iglesia de hoy a responder al dolor compartido, a expresar legítimamente el sufrimiento, a mantener viva la fe, y a caminar en esperanza.
Called as Children, Called as Parentst
Laura Kelly Fanucci
Hiemenga Hall, Room 323
How can Sunday worship—congregations’ moment of greatest contact with most members—become a time and space for faith formation with families, especially those with young children? We’ll explore different ways to welcome children within churches, invite their participation in worship, pray for and with parents and children, and connect worship with family life at home. Practical ideas and recommended resources for pastors, children’s ministers, parents, and all who care for youth!

Vital Worship in Congregations, Schools, and other Worshiping Communities
Terri Gaeddert, Rosi Penner Kaufman, Anthony Ruff, OSB (Friday)
Anthony L. Bennett, Nancy Kingwood, Dale Sieverding, SLD (Saturday)
Kathy Smith (moderator)
Hiemenga Hall, Room 334
Would your church, school, or organization benefit from a year of learning how to revitalize your worship? Come and learn about the Vital Worship Grants Program, which seeks to foster vital worship in congregations, parishes, and other worshiping communities in North America through projects on a variety of worship-related topics. Meet some former grant recipients, hear about their experiences, and learn how you might develop your own grant proposal.

Sing It Again! The Art and Science of Repetition in Worship
Monique M. Ingalls
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 222
The topic of repetition abounds in our conversations about worship. Whether we’re discussing words, actions, melodies, or songs, everyone seems to have an opinion on how much repetition is too much, too little, or just right. This workshop draws from recent work in cognitive science, musicology, and practical theology to present a framework for determining why we should repeat, what we should repeat, and how we should repeat when leading music in congregational worship.

Worship Matters: The Compelling Story of Worship through Music in Kenya
Jean Ngoya Kidula
Covenant Fine Arts Center, Room 264
The global church south of the Sahara is growing exponentially. In Kenya (East Africa), worship through music is playing an unprecedented role in drawing all nations to come and worship before the living God. In this workshop, we explore the continuing story of how music is reaching out to non-believers, celebrating diversity, building community, engaging in social issues, and inviting the nations to participate in the work of God. Come engage with songs that are speaking into the life of this burgeoning church as it pursues God in worship through music. A discussion of key considerations for reaching out globally in our own local contexts will round off the story of how worship music matters.

Preaching While White: Practices of Humility and Courage in the Face of Injustice
Meg Jenista Kuykendall with responses by Reginald Smith
Calvin Theological Seminary, Auditorium
Since the 2016 election season in the United States, there has been much talk about the “white evangelical” political demographic. Many of us preach in the context of predominantly white congregations with some affiliation with or affection for evangelicalism. How now are we called to preach, particularly around social, cultural, and political topics that many in our congregations might deem out of bounds for preaching? What does it mean to say we are called to preach a prophetic word, and what does prophetic preaching even sound like?

“I Hear You”: Dialogue around Race Stories
Nikki Lerner with Proskuneo
College Chapel, Room 214
What you need is a culture coach. When you have no safe place to process, where do you turn? Join us for this deep, enriching, and safe time together sharing stories of race and ethnicity experiences that have shaped who we are and how we see the world. You’ll also find ways to move forward in your personal life and professional ministry.

Worship in Educational Institutions
Susan Burner, Bo H. Lim, Emmett G. Price III (Friday)
Timothy Blackmon, Anthony Ruff, OSB (Saturday)
Joanna Wigboldy (moderator)
Hiemenga Hall, Room 336
Many Christian educational institutions aim to provide an integrated educational experience in which students grow spiritually. In an institution that exists primarily to educate, what is the role of public worship in the formation of students? Come to this shortened version of the Thursday seminar. Panelists from a variety of higher education contexts will share ways they approach worship on their own campuses. These questions are sure to prompt deep discussion about your community’s worship.
The Artful Reading of Scripture in Worship
Hannah Barker Nickolay and Jackson Nickolay

Spoelhof Center, Gezon Auditorium
How many times do we find our congregations (or even ourselves) tuning out when scripture is read during a worship service? What is to be done? How do we read scripture in a way that invites our congregations to listen deeply and be attentive to what God is speaking to us in scripture? This workshop will explore practical tools for the art of reading scripture well in worship.

Rhema Prints
Steve Prince

Spoelhof Center, Room 105
Rhema translates as “utterance” or “thing said,” and it refers to a word spoken to our heart from God. In this intense hands-on workshop, participants will be exposed to the limitless process of creating watercolor monoprints. Each participant will be able to create a multi-colored, thematic, faith-centered print based on one’s personal rhema. No prior artistic experience is required—just an open mind and a word in your heart to be guided through the creative process!

Lord of the Projectors: One PowerPoint to Rule Them All
Stephen Proctor

Spoelhof Center, Room 150
PowerPoint: A necessary task for some, and a world of opportunity for others. Whatever path you are on, come and see the tools that might help you take the next steps in curating visual worship for your community. This workshop will be a tech-focused complement to the “Visual Liturgy” Thursday seminar. We’ll pop the hood and look at projection technology and visual media used to fuel immersive experiences. Remember, with great PowerPoint comes great responsibility!

Leading Effective Praise Team Rehearsals
Paul Ryan

College Chapel
Our best praise team rehearsals prepare our hearts, hands, and voices to lead the community in song. In this workshop, we’ll explore the goals and techniques of effective and life-giving rehearsals by considering personal preparation, repertoire, team dynamics, and the pastoral needs of our teams.
WORKSHOP C (CONTINUED)

Theologian by Day, Double Bassist by Night: Martin Luther on Instruments and Instrumentalists in Conversation with US Hispanic Aesthetics
Leopoldo A. Sánchez
Hiemenga Hall, Room 320

Are instruments to be seen only as supporting the voice in worship? Or are there other ways of thinking about the use of instruments and the role of instrumentalists in worship? In light of the 500th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation in 2017, we will explore Martin Luther’s contributions toward a Christological and soteriological understanding of the use of instruments in the church. We will do so in conversation with US Hispanic reflections on the Christological understanding of beauty, which stress the link between discipleship and ethics. Some reflections on the role of instrumentalists in worship will follow, including the idea that instrumentalists have challenging roles to play as both theologians and interpreters of culture in today’s society.

Psalms and Islam: Reimagining Interfaith Friendship in an Islamic Context
Eric Sarwar
Hiemenga Hall, Room 333

How can the Christian message be communicated and contextualized with cultural sensitivity to be completely appealing to a Sufi-oriented audience in an Islamic context? For the past fourteen centuries Interaction between Islam and Christianity has generally been confrontational: crusades, colonial imperialism, and polemic around the Torah and Injil (the gospels). A new paradigm of cultural and creative interfaith friendship has opened in which the context shifts to the Zabor (Psalms). Here there is common ground among religious affiliations in terms of Revelation, Recitation, Ritual, and Reconciliation. This workshop proposes engaging Muslims through a mystical branch of Islam (Sufism) through the book of Psalms (Zabor). Adherents of both faiths can reimagine Scriptural engagement with the Zabor (Psalms) and the Qur’an as a catalyst for fostering peacebuilding in the twenty-first century.

Prayers of a Person, Prayers of the People
Jane Zwart
Hiemenga Hall, Room 337
What does it mean for any of us as one person—a person with particular quirks and gifts and blind spots—to offer the prayers of the people? How do we voice prayers that move toward generosity without sliding into the generic? How do we craft prayers that offer up our firstfruits as writers or orators without letting them become showy? How do we pray without furthering or ignoring the divisions that run through our congregations? This workshop will weigh these questions as well as explore some provisions for the person called upon to pray on behalf of all God’s people.

PARTICIPANTS FROM AROUND WORLD

It is a deep blessing that our conference gathers participants from around the world. We encourage your constant prayers of thanksgiving and intercession for Christian worshiping communities around the globe, especially those represented among us this week (registered at time of printing). We also regret that some other participants who had planned to attend this conference couldn’t join us because their visas were denied.

CALVIN COLLEGE

Calvin College is a Christian academic community dedicated to rigorous intellectual inquiry. Calvin students study the liberal arts and select from a broad range of majors and professional programs. The college fosters scholarship that creates new knowledge, that performs creative work, and that sustains natural and cultural resources. A Calvin education, marked by scholarly engagement with enduring questions and emerging concerns, prepares students to answer God’s call to live and serve in God’s world as agents of renewal. Calvin has about 4000 students, from over 50 countries, 45 U.S. states, and 5 Canadian provinces.

The Ministry Leadership Fellows program is an initiative of Calvin College and the Calvin Institute of Christian Worship in which first and second year Calvin students in any major field of study explore how their gifts and interests intersect with the work of the church in service to God’s world.

Ministry Leadership Fellows participate in signature learning experiences, take a leadership role in CICW’s annual Worship Symposium, and complete a manageable series of academic courses together, most of which are already part of Calvin’s core curriculum. The signature event of the first year will be a spring break pilgrimage in which students explore ways to live into their unique identity and gifting in order to build the church and shape God’s world in their lived callings, and a tuition-free for-credit summer internship course taken after the students’ second year at Calvin. CALVIN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Founded in 1876, Calvin Theological Seminary is the oldest denominational ministry and the sole theological seminary of the Christian Reformed Church in North America, which is comprised of approximately 300,000 members in over 1,000 congregations across the United States and Canada. With a focus on preparing students for biblical, authentic, contextual, and life-changing ministry rooted in historic Christianity, CTS provides a foundation that connects the best of the Reformed tradition with the contemporary ministry practices essential for tomorrow’s leaders. CTS has about 300 students, from 20 countries and more than 15 denominations and traditions.
2019 SUMMER SEMINARS
Calvin Institute of Christian Worship

We are pleased to open the application process for these 2019 summer seminars on the campus of Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Michigan. Join skilled pastors, scholars, and teachers from the Calvin community for a week of learning and encouragement. Apply today, or send this announcement to someone you know!

Ministry to and with the Next Generations: How Millennials and Gen Z are Changing the Church
Directed by Mary S. Hulst and the Calvin campus ministries team
This application-based seminar is designed for ministry professionals who minister to and with those in the “Millennial” and “Gen Z” age range (18-35 years old). Parish pastors, worship leaders, campus ministers, and other curious people are all welcome to apply. Each day will include a particular focus on working with millennials and Gen Z. On the final day, participants will present their “action plan” for how their work in their context will be different as a result of participating in the seminar. Applications due February 15, 2019.

African American Religious Autobiography
Co-directed by Danjuma Gibson and John Witvliet
In this week-long seminar, we will form a multi-cultural group of pastors, teachers, professors, and non-profit organization leaders to learn from the poignant and prophetic autobiographical writings of Frederick Douglass, Sojourner Truth, Howard Thurman, and Ida B. Wells. We will pay particular attention to the implications of their writings for vital and faithful pastoral, priestly, and prophetic leadership in Christian communities today. Applications due March 15, 2019.

YOUR FUTURE IS CALLING

Master of Divinity

- Explore this comprehensive program that most fully prepares students for ministry. Often required for ordination, students who graduate with this degree are equipped not only for pastoral ministry, but for a variety of ministry callings including chaplaincy, missions, and non-profit leadership.

- Students graduating with a Master of Divinity will take the full offerings of theological, biblical, and pastoral courses.

- The Master of Divinity can be completed in three or four years studying in residence, or in five years through our distance-learning program.

Master of Arts in Ministry Leadership

- Discover a powerful degree program for church ministry. Perfect for the current or future ministry leader, this master’s program offers theologically rich coursework and practical, applied learning in your area of interest.

- Your learning will focus on one of five ministry spheres: Education, Youth, and Family; Missional Leadership; Pastoral Care; Pastoral Leadership; or Worship.

- This program has been recently redesigned for student success and streamlined for student efficiency. The Master of Arts in Ministry Leadership can be completed in two years studying in residence, or in two to three years through our distance-learning program.

Whether you choose Master of Divinity, Master of Arts in Ministry Leadership, or another program, Calvin Seminary will prepare you for a rich career in ministry, cultivating communities of disciples of Jesus.

Students in all our degree programs are eligible for scholarships. Learn more at: calvinseminary.edu/admissions

CALVIN SYMPOSIUM ON WORSHIP

WORSHIP
Services of the Word: The Gospel in the Prophets

In the famed story at the end of Luke about “The Road to Emmaus,” the stranger on the road (who is actually the resurrected Jesus) engages his traveling companions in a serious Easter evening Bible study. Luke tells us the gist of this study when he says “Then beginning with Moses and all the prophets, he interpreted to them the things about himself in all the scriptures.” Somehow, some way “all the prophets” witness to Jesus the Messiah. This year at Symposium our five primary preaching texts will come from the Minor Prophets of the Old Testament. Each text contains a preview of vital gospel truths that will come to fruition in the life and ministry of Jesus. Seeing the Messiah through the lens of these texts will deepen our appreciation for the love and the grace of God that resulted in our very salvation through Christ Jesus the Lord.
