NOTE ISSUE TO HELP FINANCE LIBRARY ADDITION

The next major project in the development of the Knollcrest Campus will be an expansion of the existing Library-Classroom Building — see arrow on the aerial insert below for location. The addition will contain 95,000 square feet of floor area compared with 53,000 in the original portion. The resulting structure will accommodate the library and library-related needs of the College and Seminary for many decades.

As is indicated by the architectural rendering below, the exterior design of the proposed unit is simple and straightforward. The interior design is one of large, open areas, providing maximum flexibility. Initially, one whole floor will be used for classrooms, which will be vacated as the library expands.

Besides the money that has been and will be obtained through grants, loans, and centennial crusade receipts, we will finance a few hundred thousand dollars of the library-addition cost through the sale of promissory notes. We have had excellent response to previous announcements concerning the availability of these notes on other projects and solicit your participation once more. If you have not participated to date, this would be a good time to begin.

The interest rate of 5½% offered on the notes is higher than that paid on most savings accounts, the stated maturity rates are varied, and Calvin will continue to honor requests for early redemption. In other words, you can be of vital help to your College and to your Seminary by transferring some of your savings into this program — without sacrificing security, liquidity, or yield.

Do yourself and Calvin College and Seminary a favor by completing the application on the other side and mailing it, with your remittance, to Henry De Wit, Calvin College and Seminary, Grand Rapids, Michigan 49506. Interest on your investment will accrue from the date we receive your check.
