ABOUT THE BEDFORD VALLEY COUNTRY CLUB

The Bedford Valley Country Club has been labeled "The Big Course" by many who have played it throughout the years. One of the 163 golf courses designed by William Mitchell, Bedford Valley plays like two different courses. The front nine goes up and down the hills of the southwest Michigan landscape. The back nine has the players facing tree-lined fairways throughout the finishing nine holes.

Each green has strategically placed sand traps that can catch any off-line shot and escalate scores quickly. The greens are large enough to invite long second shots but pin placement can create a real hazard of three putts. Water comes into play on four holes. The sand and up-and-down layout provides a severe challenge for even the best golfers.
