A revolution is quietly going on in the world of eLearning. Some technologies and practices seem to have matured, but because of a shift in demands and a shift in technology, we are seeing a fairly dramatic rise of alternative approaches to eLearning that are often called eLearning 2.0. This session will discuss how wikis, social bookmarking, blogging, and other eLearning 2.0 tools impact work and learning. It will examine how these tools fit into personal work and learning, group work and learning, and the impact they have more broadly.

Notes to Attendees: This presentation assumes you are somewhat familiar with Blogs, Wikis, Social Bookmarking, etc. If you are not familiar with these concepts, then you may want to visit: Introduction to Wikis, Blogs, Social Bookmarking, Social Networking, RSS and other eLearning 2.0 Tools
